thank you for giving us a chance to air our grievances, about the banks.

Banks are ripping off their clients by charging us for everything, including giving them money. Unless your re earning over R500000- a year(which most people don't) it is not worth banking. And banks like absa are concentrating on sales more than anything, they are now taking more money and giving you less service, and i should know, i working for them.

You want very little interest which you lose due the to the charges you have to pay. and those charges increase ever year by by unbelievable amounts.
